A PARTNERSHIP DISPUTE.

Application for Leave to Appeal.

Li Chi Chin applied to the Full Court this morning for leave to appeal to the Full Court against the decision of His Honour Mr. A. G. Wise (Puisne Judge) that he (Li Chi Chin) was a partner in the Tuk Li Leung firm.

His Lordship Sir Francis Pigott (Chief Justice) and His Honour Mr. A. G. Wise (Puisne Judge) were on the Bench.

Hon. Dr. Ho Kai, C.M.G. (instructed by Mr. G. K. Hall Brutton) appeared for the appellant.

The Puisne Judge—Have you put up the security?

Hon. Dr. Ho Kai—Yes.

The Puisne Judge—There are eight cases!

Hon. Dr. Ho Kai—Yes. It is all up to show that this application is bona-fide. I do not know how far you expect me to go on this application.

The Chief Justice—You must show reasonable grounds.

Hon. Dr. Ho Kai—I submit that the evidence did not warrant the finding arrived at by the learned Judge. In the Judge's notes, as your Lordships will see, there is no evidence such as is usual in determining whether a man is a partner, with the exception of the evidence given by Lau Hing Pong, the managing partner of the firm.

The Chief Justice—I think he has absconded.

The Puisne Judge—Yes, I have that.

Hon. Dr. Ho Kai—He absconded but left the books in the shop.

The Chief Justice—Can you give me a brief summary of the positive and negative evidence?

Hon. Dr. Ho Kai—That is all the positive.

The Puisne Judge—No, there are the exhibits!

Hon. Dr. Ho Kai—Yes; the books he left behind. The plaintiff found the books and he impounded them and they were afterwards used against Li Chi Chin. Lau Hing Pong, who was the chief witness and upon whose evidence the learned judge gave his decision (together with the books he left behind) started the Tuk Li Leung some years before the partnership was entered into. In his evidence he stated that he only commenced the firm about eighteen months ago and it was not until he was cross-examined that he admitted that he had carried on the business on his own account under the same name for some years before Li Chi Chin joined him.

The Chief Justice—Yes; that was when the partnership started.

Hon. Dr. Ho Kai—But it goes to show that he carried on the business under the same name and that there was no notification of a change. With regard to the books it is somewhat significant that all the books prior to the partnership have been lost. Lau Hing Pong explains that he lost them in the typhoon of September 18 when he was moving to Des Vaux Road. He says he remained in Des Vaux Road for a couple of months and then moved to Queen's Road, but a reference to the register of householders showed that he had lived in Queen's Road since October, 1902, and from the exhibits it appears that he carried on his business there from the time he commenced it. The story of his removal was simply put forward to account for the disappearance of the books. Certain entries in the books were referred to as showing that the appellant was a partner and was receiving wages. Of these items $30 was paid to one man who tried to get business for the firm and tried to get money deposited in it and the second $30 was paid to the appellant's wife. It was shown conclusively that this $30 was by way of interest for money lent by the appellant's wife, and evidence of seeing the money lent and interest paid was given by Mrs. Li's sister. For the loans promissory notes were given but these were afterwards changed. One of the witnesses called on the firm for repayment of the loan and handed the notes to Lau Hing Pong to ascertain the interest. A quarter of an hour later Lau handed over three notes and asked the witness to call again and witness did not notice that the notes had been changed, but a witness from the stamp office gave evidence of three promissory notes being bought the previous day.

The Chief Justice—You want to adduce further evidence; you should have done that before.

Hon. Dr. Ho Kai—Yes; I am coming to that. The action was commenced in summary as a small case and there was hardly time enough for the defence to produce the man who got the promissory notes from the Stamp Office. Acting upon the information given by the clerk it has been found that this man can be discovered.

The Chief Justice—But even if you get leave to appeal I doubt if you could get leave to adduce fresh evidence.

The Puisne Judge—You searched for him, because I wanted him badly. The impression left on my mind was that he was your servant.

Hon. Dr. Ho Kai—Why should we want to change the notes? There is absolutely no reason why we should forge new notes.

Continuing his argument, the Hon. Dr. Ho Kai pointed out that from the time Li Chi Chin was alleged to have joined the firm Lau Hing Pong had gone on incurring liabilities. He did not inform Li Chi Chin of the position, though he knew he was a wealthy man, and finally Lau Hing Pong quietly left the Colony. Though he came back to give evidence he disappeared immediately afterwards. The books left behind, if examined by an expert, would be found to be false.

The Chief Justice—What you want is a new trial.

Hon. Dr. Ho Kai—No, not a new trial, but it is in Your Lordship's power to allow us to get fresh evidence.

The Chief Justice—You want the whole thing thrashed out again on a different way.

Hon. Dr. Ho Kai—No, only on some material points. There was not sufficient time when the case was heard.

The Chief Justice—Did you ask for an adjournment?

Hon. Dr. Ho Kai—I believe the solicitor did apply for an adjournment but it was refused and he then asked for pleadings, but this also was refused.

The Chief Justice—Why did you not ask for a special issue?

Hon. Dr. Ho Kai—The issue was whether this man was a partner. It was a small case, but immediately afterwards he was confronted with the fact that he was a partner—not by himself holding out, or by any partnership agreement for there was none except an unsigned memorandum, but only by these books, over which he had no control, which he knew nothing about. Then all these other cases were brought against him.

The Chief Justice—If a man is a sleeping partner he would not see the books.

Hon. Dr. Ho Kai—But there is no evidence that he was a sleeping partner.

The Puisne Judge—Oh, yes; there was. After a consultation with the Puisne Judge, the Chief Justice said—You have come to the conclusion that the case put forward for leave to appeal is not sufficient because it would re-open every case in Summary Jurisdiction if similar argument was allowed and it would upset altogether the virtue of the Summary Court. But this man had one action for a small amount and he did not realise the full extent of his position, until he suddenly found seven or eight other cases brought against him. It is quite possible that he might have given greater attention to his position had he known what was to follow. You will therefore have leave to appeal, but I think it would be better to have a new trial, which would not waste the time of both judges. It has already been heard by the Puisne Judge and I could take it in Summary.

Hon. Dr. Ho Kai—I think it must go before the Full Court.

This was assented to by the Chief Justice and the appeal will now be heard before the Full Court.

THE "TALKING SHOP."

Criticism of the Honours List.

(From Our Correspondent).

LONDON, July 30.

Oppressed by the weight of a big majority and a bigger programme, the Government has shown the general fatigue of the summer by abandoning a whole crop of innocents in the shape of proposed bills, but there still remain over forty which have been carried on the business on his own account under the same name for some years before Li Chi Chin joined him.

The Chief Justice—Yes; that was when the partnership started.

Hon. Dr. Ho Kai—But it goes to show that he carried on the business under the same name and that there was no notification of a change. A REBEL CHINESE.

Application for Extradition.

An application for the extradition of Lu Ki Shing, who is wanted for armed robbery in China, was made at the Magistrate's Court yesterday afternoon, before Mr. P. A. Hazeland. Mr. G. E. Morrell (Crown Solicitor) appeared for the Chinese Government, and the application was opposed by Sir Henry Berkeley, K.C. (instructed by Mr. Otto Kong Sing).

Sir Henry took the point that accused should be informed that he was not bound to answer any questions which tended to show that he (Lu Ki Shing) was implicated in the recent rising in Swatow, and Mr. Hazeland directed that defendant be informed that he need not answer any questions which would incriminate himself.

In answer to Mr. Morrell, defendant stated that he initiated the organisation three or four months ago, over 4000 men being enrolled. They were not paid any wages, as all fought with "one heart to gain one object." The Reform Party supplied the necessary funds to feed the troops. Defendant admitted being in charge of the banners and ammunition. The rebellion was due to rice being scarce, and dear and to excessive taxation. The mainstays of the Chiu-chow district, against whom the rebellion was primarily directed, had taken no steps to alleviate the conditions, and the members of the Reform Party were bound to attack all mandarins who neglected to do their duty or who treated the people harshly. If the Emperor of China acted justly the Reform Party would be content, but they were not satisfied with the laws of China, none of which were just.

Defendant declined to say whether Sun Yat Sen was leader of the Reform Party or whether he knew anything about the rising. It was the high price of rice which started the rebellion, but that was not all, though their object was to punish the mandarins.

The hearing was resumed at the Magistrate's Court this afternoon, on reading over defendant's evidence Mr. Hazeland came to a passage as follows:—"The members of the Reform Party were imprisoned for armed robbery." Sir Henry thought that the word "alleged" should be put in and on it being put to defendant he answered in the affirmative, and then added—"We, of the Reform Party never committed armed robbery."

A hawker named Chan Hop Chin, a native of Chui-chau, who was wearing a long coat of white silk, stated he arrived in Hongkong on March 28 from Swatow, by the Douglas Steamship Company's steamer. The defendant was a friend of his and travelled with him from Swatow.

Mr. Morrell—Are you a hawker?

Witness—I have a stall in front of a shop.

Mr. Morrell—You don't go round with a tray?

Witness—No. We do not get prosecuted for obstruction in Swatow.

Continuing, witness said he had known defendant for a year or two, but had only become intimate with him last February, when they met in a Mission House in Swatow. Defendant was not baptised but had come to listen to a sermon.

Mr. Morrell—Do you wear a long coat when you are hawking?

Here in Hongkong?—No; I have a stationary stall beneath a tree at Tai-lung.

It is only on occasions when you come to court you wear a frock—a long coat?—It is by my respect to the Court that I come here dressed respectfully.

While defendant was in Hongkong he stayed at Tai-lung with witness, but witness did not know what defendant did in the day time. Nothing happened on either April 15 or 16 which witness remembered, either in connection with himself or defendant, but he could swear defendant was then in the Colony. From the day of their arrival in Hongkong until the date of defendant's departure for Swatow—May 10—defendant slept in the same room as witness each night.

Mr. Morrell—Do you go out at night?

No. Are you a member of the Reform Party?

Sir Henry Berkeley objected. The question was immaterial and unreasonable. It was an open court and if the information reached the country of which witness was a native it might be prejudicial to him.

Mr. Morrell insisted on the question being put.

Sir Henry Berkeley—Unfortunately my friend holds a brief for the Chinese Government.

Mr. Morrell—I object to that; it is the second insinuation my learned friend has made. I appear for the Government of the Colony.

Sir Henry—No, you are not!

Mr. Morrell—I am!

Mr. Hazeland—Let me hear what Sir Henry has to say.

Sir Henry—I say it is not proper for the Crown Solicitor to appear as he is doing and I protest against it. The Crown Solicitor of the Supreme Court is paid by the Government of the Colony and has no interest whatsoever, except the vindication of justice. He has no interest in a conviction and this question should not be pressed against this witness. If he is shown to be a reformer it might be used against him later on.

Mr. Hazeland—I think he should answer.

Mr. Nolan (the interpreter)—He answers "No!"

Both Sir Henry Berkeley and Mr. Morrell had to laugh at this. The further hearing was adjourned until to-morrow at 2.15 p.m.

THE LOSS OF THE S.S. WIK.

Villagers Claim the Wreck.

A message to the "Kokumin" says that the Mito Marine Products Guild, which represent Matsuzaki town and two neighbouring villages, holds that the German S.S. Wik was abandoned and wrecked in the rescue of the crew, while the County Office deprecates such an interpretation. Moreover, according to a report submitted to the Town Office, the Captain of the Wik asked the help of the villagers, but did not abandon the vessel. The fishermen, however, still propose to argue their contention.

Student—"There must be some mistake in my examination marking. I don't think I deserve an absolute zero." Inspector—"Neither do I, but it is the lowest mark I am allowed to give."

ANOTHER MURDER.

Late last night the body of a dead Chinaman was found in French St., West Point, under circumstances which pointed to murder, for the body bore several stab wounds. The West Point police, under Inspector Collett, commenced inquiries which resulted in the discovery of a shank-knife, blood-stained, and a sheath. It was also ascertained that deceased was a carpenter named Lui Tui, employed at the Kwong Woe Tai, 258 Des Vaux Road, and a good deal has been obtained from which it is hoped to run the murderer to earth.

From the positions of the wounds on the body of deceased it would seem as though he was attacked both from the front as well as the back.

The motive for the crime has not been unearthed, and apparently there were no witnesses to it.

A CHINESE DIVER'S DEATH.

Lam Shek Tong, a Chinese diver, met his death yesterday, whilst working in Hungsham Bay. The diver had gone down with others to work below the surface and finding the tide strong lashed himself to the junk's rudder. It is surmised that in attempting to free himself to get to the surface he cut his life line and air pipe. As he did not answer to the signals made from above another diver was sent down to investigate, with the result that Lam Shek Tong was found dead. His body was sent to the Morgue.

OUR SCOTTISH LETTER.

(From Our Correspondent.)

EDINBURGH, July 27.

It is impossible as yet to have called for the working classes in connection with our Board schools; they would entail too much expense on the parents; but a word must be said in favour of the Boys' Brigades. This movement was started in Scotland, and although it has spread to other countries, it is still at its best and strongest in the place of its birth. The organisation may be described as one half Church and the other half Army—and not too much of the Church. The results are of the most encouraging character; it has proved a good leaven in the community, and the boys from its ranks are welcomed by employers of labour. There is at present a summer camp of a Boys' Brigade near Edinburgh, and it is an interesting thing to see some five hundred city lads living in the open, and all working out loyally their little problems of order and discipline.

An important discovery of coal is reported on the borders of Northumberland and Roxburghshire. Borings have been engaged in by some Hexam gentlemen, who have acquired about four thousand acres of land between Hexam and Riccarton, and valuable seams of coal have been discovered. When the mines are opened, it will repopulate an abandoned part of the country.

The prospectus of the Scottish National Exhibition, which is to be held at Saughton Park, Edinburgh, next year, has just been issued. It states that while the Executive claim for the Exhibition a Scottish national character, it will still be of far wider scope and there will be exemplified in its courts all that is best in the art, science, literature, and industry of the Empire at large.

Professor Sir Thomas McCall Anderson has been appointed one of His Majesty's honorary physicians in Scotland. He is a native of Glasgow, has long been associated with its medical school, and was the first servant who appended his signature to the recent manifesto in favour of alcohol.

An Edinburgh journal which is credited with special information, gives prominence to the following—"My information is that a British Commission, to be sent presently by the Foreign Office to make a new arrangement in regard to Indian and Burmese trade with the Celestial Empire, will have a very important task in trying to bring the conditions of the opium traffic into line with the recent Imperial Edict. To put the matter plainly, neither missionaries nor officials attach much faith to the Chinese Government being in earnest so far as minimising the use of the drug is concerned. Mandarins and other high officials are largely interested in poppy cultivation, and derive great wealth from the business, and the Edict is looked upon as merely an effort to penalise British India in order to benefit the Chinese native cultivators."

On the whole, there has been a sigh of relief in Scotland on learning that if the Bill now before the House of Lords passes into law, women, though they may be able to sit on Borough and County Councils, are not to be allowed to sit as Convenors or Provosts. No doubt there are many ladies who combine business capacity with attractions, which would enable them to preside with the most charming effect over a gathering of civic or rural councillors. They would also probably wear the civic robes and other gaily insignia of office with a brave grace than any mere male can ever achieve. But, unfortunately, we say it with a blush for our own sex, that is not all that is wanted in a chairman. And there are some Councils in this part of the world, they need not be named, of which we should be very sorry to see any lady put in charge. We have only to imagine the usual monthly session, the Provost in tears, and—but the subject is too distressing.

The motor is coming to the front as a rival of the railways in a variety of ways. A large number of parties are now motoring through Scotland on tours, for instance; but the serious point, so far as railways are concerned, lies in the fact that the new vehicle is competing for goods traffic with long established lines. A service of motor wagons from Leith to Galloway is being largely taken advantage of by merchants and manufacturers in the Border town. Every day, two or three motor wagons with heavy loads of goods travel between Leith and the Borders. Manufacturers are having their wool from the London market shipped to Leith, and thence conveyed to Galloway by motor.

This week's saying.—That Kaid Maclean now knows what it is to be bound in Morocco.

This week's story.—Two small-sized Cockney soldiers were on a Glasgow tramcar the other day, and were making humorous remarks at the expense of the guard. When that official asked them to stop, they pretended not to hear. One remarked to his comrade-in-arms, "What do you think of 'is at it?" Whereupon the other chimed in, "And can't be near about the feet?" "Now then," said the conductor in sarcastic tones, "I'll only your pennies, little ones—Britishers last hope!" They silently obeyed, and the other passengers smiled loudly.

This week's poem.—It is reported that Kaid Maclean would not join Raissuli in his pigsticking expedition; but softened the refusal by inviting the chieftain to hear the bagpipes. On which a West Country bard writes:—

"Twas said the Kaid received a card, 'Raissuli—10 to 6—pigsticking—R.S.V.P.' This minor bard

Precumes a messenger went pricking across the sands with this reply:—

"Regret the weather much too fine is; 'At pigsticking I fear that I Am sicker bored than any swine is.' And thereupon the wily Kaid,</
